Dear Supporter,

On behalf of the Project Beacon board and extended team, we're thrilled to invite you to our 3rd annual fall fundraiser: Nashville Nights - Beacon in The Big Barn. Join us on September 19th at Dosey Doe from 6 pm to 10 pm. We can't wait to see you there!

“WHY PROJECT BEACON AND WHY NOW?”

At Project Beacon, our mission is to build a community of belonging where adults with autism and other neurodiversities can thrive. We are dedicated to providing integrated, high-quality, and sustainable solutions for the educational, vocational, social, and residential needs of the neurodiverse community.

With autism rates currently at 1 in 36 children, up from 1 in 250 just 20 years ago, it's clear that the neurodiverse population is multiplying, and those children from 20 years ago are now adults. The existing solutions in Greater Houston and Texas are not keeping pace with all levels of support. Often, available approaches are fragmented, addressing only parts of the need or taking a one-size-fits-all approach to neurodiversity.

Our unique approach is different. Our programs are created and designed for the specialized needs of individuals with autism but also benefit other neurodiversities and developmental disabilities as well. We are committed to fostering a caring culture, offering innovative programs, comprehensive support, and strong community connections. This holistic strategy is designed to meet the full spectrum of needs for the neurodiverse community and build a model for transformational adult autism services. Without our specialized programs, adults with autism have very few options available to them, and many will lose valuable skills that contribute to a meaningful quality of life.

We've already made significant strides with our social enrichment events, quadrupling participation in just one year. Our next step is to expand our services from one day a month to five days a week by opening the Beacon Access Center, an educational program for students with varying support needs. We've identified a location, potential students, faculty, and resources and aim to open in January 2025. But we need your support to realize this vision and provide these essential educational and vocational services.

Looking ahead, we also plan to tackle the critical need for long-term quality residential solutions. We've already identified a potential site for this future phase. Opening the Beacon Access Center is a crucial step towards this goal, as it will help us demonstrate the necessary quality-of-life outcomes data needed to further support the need for transformational adult autism services.

We've made incredible strides, but our journey is just beginning. Your support is essential for us to continue this transformative journey. Together, we can empower neurodiverse individuals to achieve their fullest potential and make impactful contributions to our community. The opportunity before us is immense, and with your help, we can unlock it and create a lasting difference.
